Lund University

Working Papers 1/1969

Introduction

The Phonetics Laboratory of the Department of Linguistics of Lund University plans to send out reports on research already completed or in progress. Once a year there will be an account of courses given during the year, as well as selected short summaries of studies undertaken by postgraduate students.

The results reported are to be considered as preliminary and will in general be published elsewhere. Articles written in Swedish will be followed by summaries in English.
